of Scitmate.

It is hardly necessary for us to urge upon the freemen the importance of attending this meeting. Matters of no or dinary moment are depending upon the elections which are about to take place; and it is the duty of every While to be at his post, and essist in the work. It is desirable that there should be a general attendance of the members of the party, this evening, to hear the report of the ensairating committee. As a general if ing the great body of the party are too negligent of these preliminary, meetings, and in consequence of this, much mischief is often accomplished. We ask the Wlags, one and all, to come to the Town Hall this evening, and hear the report of their Committee, which is com-A of good men, and who are anxious only for the weithre of the Wing party. It the metaliers of the party will give a general attendance, and interchange opinions as to what shall be dene, no one can complain, because all will have a lair opportunibale all questions and matters which may come before them. We are of the Whigs a full and punctual weenester, at half past 7 o'clock. Aft distilluctions in any party are aided in consequence of the body of the party neglecting to attend the preliminary meetings, and thus a few wire-pullers usurp all power and dictate how things shall be done. We have no tancy for such operations, and we know that they are dangerous to any party. We like to see a full representation, and to hear a general expression of opinion from ally- and then we like to sen the party , countries and sustain the best men.

Once more we repeat that the meeting THIS EVENING will be one of the most important which has been held for a long time, and we ask every Whig to be at the Town Hall punctually at half past 7 o'clock.

It is said that Mr. Washington, proprietor of the Mount Vernon estate was asked by the President, on Friday the price at which the United States Government could purclaise Mount Vernon for a Military Asylum; and that the reply was that for two hundred nones around the mansion, he would ask two hundred thousand dollars, Mr. W. remarked that the offer of two hundred thousand dollars had been made to him by private individuals and that, of course, he would expect the government to pay the same. ROMANCE OF MATRIMONY .-- We have all beard of marriage, crossing marriages, and intermarriages but for the atter confusion of marriages, the reader s referred to the following statement, which is avou hed as true in all its par-

A few years ago, a respectable young English woman residing near London. became the object of affection to a worthy rearcaptain, and after due nequaintance and preliminaries, it was agreed among the friends, as well as themselves, that their union would be a proper one, Post to enlighten them. He will prob and they were accordingly married. The marriage was a most happy one; and the boshand and wife fived together in the bonds of real affection. At length during a distant voyage, the captain's reasol was lost and the young wife was made wretched by the intelligence that her husband together with every soul on board, had been lost with the wreck. Utterly disconsolate, and wasting in health, the young widow was at length induced to Visit America, in the hope that a change of scene would wear Tway har distress. She had friends already here, and to them she came on a temporary visit. Having reached the western world, it was found that either change of scene or the salt sea air had wrought miracles on her health and spirits ; her bloom returned, her mind was more composed, and in less than six months after her arrival, she, found herself reclining upon the affections of a second husband, a countryman of her

With this one she resided upwards of a year, and having a strong desire to visit home again, she obtained her husband's consent, and departed on board a steamer for the land of her early joys and sorrows. As she approached her native shores her reflections naturally reverted to past scenes, among those of her first domestic enjoyment were vividly prominent. The form of her last one rese before her, and mingled in memory with scenes of happiness, like the half. feded images of golden dreams, and a What was her astonishment on being informed that her husband, the captain, afterboxing the compass over strange seas and strange lands for a couple of years, had returned cafe and sound, and was at that moment within the sound of the Pow-bells ! Her delight was unbounded; she forgot-no she did not larget --- her latter spouse, but she forthwith sat down and addressed to him an epistle, stating the fact of the not tender strains, assured him that it would be utterly impossible for her to return to his affectionate arms. This dispatched, she forthwith prepared to suck and nace more be happy with the man who had won her virgin heart-But alas for the fallacy of human hopes! Verily

The course of true love never did run smooth." The deserted husband, indignant at Pr the securing want of affection and respect as evinced in her second marriage, refused to recognize or have anything to do with her. Here was a dilemma not anticipated. She had cast off one, and been cast off in turn by the other. The poor thing took it much to heart, and well she might. To be a widow with two living husbands was an attitude as unlooked for as it was unusual, and her position a spectacle for the world of possip to gaze upon. The captain remained obdurate; and on the other hand, the idea of supplicating the other was too hundlinting to be entertained, to say nothing of the chances of being again rejected. Thus things word on for a few months, and the situation of the grass widow grew more and more perplexing and appalling. He, poor fellew, having given her up as irretrievably lost, had consoled himself philosophically, and taken a legitimate antilote for his sor rows, by marrying again. The "guide mon" was not so fastidious as the captain, or else his did made a box's speculation in his last adventure. He no spotser knew of her arrival than he presented himself before her, and finding her disengaged of all other matchenoular at large very to her again to his arms, and couly bowed the new members and couly bowed the new members and finding her of the louse. Gerte:--Gratifude will no longer prevent my au Gretz --Gratitude will no longer prevent my au knowledging to you how much I have been benefited by the use of Dr. S. P. Townsend's Baruparillis. For nearly a year I have been adicted with Dystepsis and Nerrous Dublity; I had become all most discouraged, as my physician's prescriptions were avery day the same: "Tou require no mediate, but a service in the open sit, my good lady, er you will none; est well." Feeling as I then did, this was not pre Joubla. So I began, through the recommendation on "Mr. Cestman, in Johnson st, lot the Br. B. P. Towns - "Saruparilla. I have not lakes all of the third bottle, as I face a tea spoonful some to have more effect than two tables spoonful did at first. This, I have been told, is one of the gree. at first. This, I have been told, is one of the green secretic of the success of your medicine; that instead of Increasing, the does is diminished. I are now anjoying better health than I have before for a year. Their power over the above diseases it not ex-celled—if equalled—by any other preputation in the United States, as the cures attest, in many ca-ses after skilling hypricians had failed. These Bitters are worthy the attention of inva-lids. Passessing great virtues in the rectification of diseases of the Liter and leaser glouds, exer-cising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digestive organs, they are withal, asfe, certain and pleasand.

"Dr. Hongland's German Bitters.—Here is a preparation which the leading pressessin the Union appears to be unanimous in recommending, and the reason is obvious. It is made after a prescription familished by one of the most eskebrated physicians of modern times—the late Dr. Christopher Will-helm Hoolland, professor to the University of Jena, private physician to the king of Pressia, and one of the greatest medical writers Germany has ever produced. He was emphatically the enemy of knowledge and therefore a medicine of which he was the inventor and endorser may be confidently relied on. He specially recommended it in Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Debility, Vertigo, Arkidiy of the Stomach, Conclipation, and all complaints arising from discodered contition of the stessach, the liver and the intestines. Nine Philadelphia respects express their conviction of its excellence, and several of the editors speak of its effects from their own individual experience. Under these vircumstances, we feel warranted, not only in calling the attention of our readers to the present proprietor's (Dr. C. M. Jackson's) preparation, but in recommending the article to all allicated."
